

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to methods for reducing plant sensitivity to diseases and attacks from pathogenic organisms. The methods according to the invention comprises overexpressing an inducible lipoxygenase in plants in order to improve their response to diseases and pathogens. The invention also relates to expression cassettes for overexpressing lipoxygenases in plants, and also to transformed plants.